Aheadd is a European consulting company that focuses on smart responsive websites.

Our strategists, designers and developers all have great expertise and we have helped many businesses with successful solutions. We create more selling solutions.

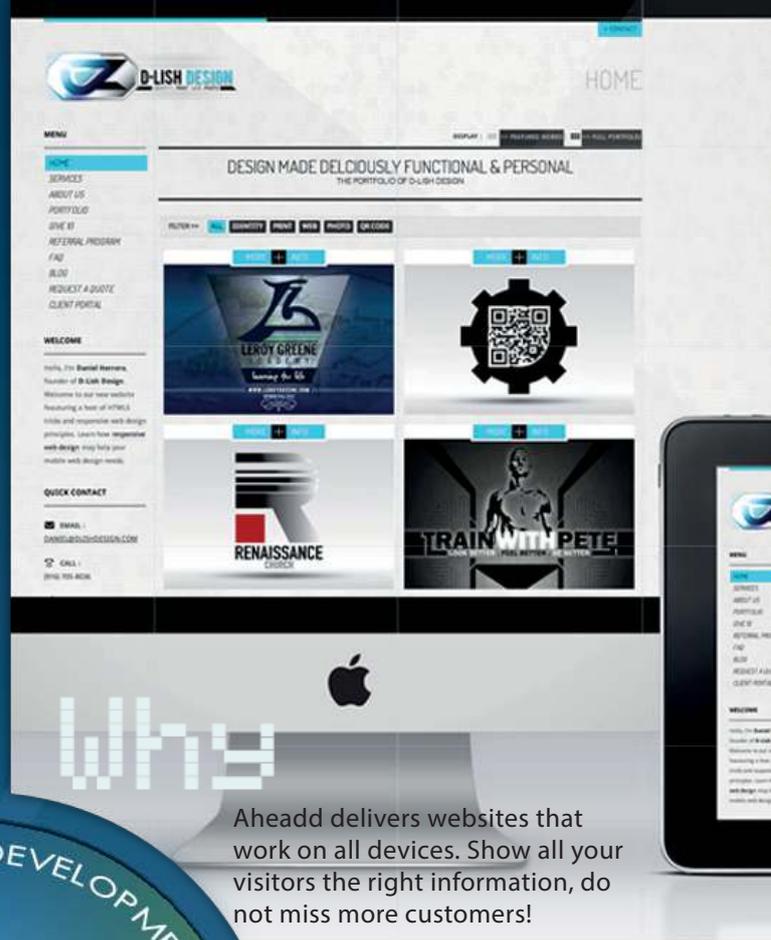

Responsive

Expectations for 2013 are that the majority of all searches and website visitors will consist of mobile users

What is a responsive design?

A website with a responsive design is a single website that receives its content from one content management system (CMS), but adapts to the visitor's screen size.

It is not only the layout of the site that changes. Depending on the visitor's screen, the images will be loaded in the correct size automatically too. The result is that visitors with different browsers and devices will have access to the same content, which will be easy to read and navigate, without horizontal scrollbars.

Aheadd delivers websites that work on all devices. Show all your visitors the right information, do not miss more customers!

OPEN SOURCE

We specialize in Open Source software. Open Source is a philosophy that empathizes free license to alter the source code and redistribute it freely. This opens up for large communities of developers. These communities create significant benefits due to the many programmers and testers available, to resolve security flaws and develop free solutions to various problems. Aheadd specializes in using Open Source software for all business needs and we are personally involved in the most important communities. We can deliver almost anything!

Aheadd specializes in the three most widely used and well-known Open Source development frameworks. Drupal is known for its flexibility, WordPress for its ease of use and Magento is known as the most powerful shopping system on the market.
